Let's Start!

Let's go out this evening! Do you feel like it?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information involving apologies, thanks, suggestions and invitations in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can accept and refuse invitations.
- I can use verbs with infinitives.
- I can talk about food and drink.

Ask your partner:

- Do you always accept your friends' invitations?
- When do you accept invitations?
- When do you refuse invitations?

Let's Explore!

Time to veg out in front of the TV! Finally! Is this a date? Let's find out.

* "To veg out" means to relax with friends. It's very informal.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Would you like to get some food before we start?
Peter: What do you feel like eating?
Vanessa: I don't know ... Chinese?
Peter: I don't think it's the best kind of food to veg out in front of the TV with!
Vanessa: You're right ... It can be very messy.
Peter: We could order more sushi.
Vanessa: Great idea! Sally and John need to bring some! The restaurant is on the way.
Peter: Sally and John?
Vanessa: Yes! They want to watch the movie with us. I hope you don't mind.
Peter: Well ... I ...
Vanessa: Besides, you and John are good friends, right?
Peter: So this is not a date?
Vanessa: Well ... I like all my friends to keep me company!

Let's Practice!

Did you understand the dialogue? Let's find out!

Instructions: Select the correct answer.

1. What does Vanessa want to eat?

- ☐ She would like to eat Italian food.
- ☐ She wants to eat Chinese food.
- ☐ She'd like to eat Mexican food.

2. What do Sally and John need to bring?

- ☐ They need to bring a movie.
- ☐ They need to bring vegetables.
- ☐ They need to bring sushi.

Let's Practice!

Do you accept? Do you refuse? Make the right choice!

Instructions: Write the words from the word bank in the correct category.

Word bank

No, thanks.
With pleasure!

That's very kind of you!
Great idea!

Sorry about that!
Maybe next time!

Target Words

- to veg out (verb): to spend free time doing nothing
e.g. I love to veg out in front of the TV!
- messy (adjective): not clean; not neat e.g. Chinese food is great but it's messy to eat in front of the TV.
- I hope you don't mind (expression): I hope you are OK with it e.g. John and Sally are coming. I hope you don't mind!
- besides (adverb): in addition; as well e.g. Let's invite John. Besides, I know you are good friends.
- to keep someone company (expression): to spend time with someone when they feel bored or lonely
e.g. I like all my friends to keep me company!

Learning Points

Accepting and Refusing Invitations

When you invite someone, you use the modals would, should, and could.

For example:

Would you like to come to dinner?

You should come to my party!

Could you come over later?

You can also use the phrase How about ... ?

It is important to respond in a polite way when a person invites you.

You thank a person when you accept an invitation.

You apologize when you refuse an invitation.

Accepting an Invitation	Refusing an Invitation
With pleasure! Thank you so much! That's very kind/sweet of you. Thank you for ... Great idea!	Thanks, but ... I would love to, but ... I'm really sorry, but ... Thank you for the offer, but ... Sorry about that! Maybe next time!

Examples:

• Andrew: How about eating pizza tonight? My treat!

Bobby: Thanks! That's very kind of you!

• Jenna: Would you like to watch an action movie?

Roy: I would love to, but I need to work tonight.

• Jessica: You should come over for dinner later!

Marie: Great idea!
