Let's Start!

Writing Spot: There are so many things to do around town. Sally gets to write about her city in her blog!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information involving apologies, thanks, suggestions and invitations in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can make suggestions.
- I can write descriptions.
- I can express a goal or a purpose.

Ask your partner:

- What are the top 5 places to visit in your town or city? Why?
- Which place would you suggest to a visitor? Why?

Let's Explore!

Sally's writing her blog tonight. Peter gives her a call. Will she change her mind?

* "To give someone a call" means to telephone someone.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: Hey, do you to come out with us tonight? John and I are going to the movies.
- Sally: Sorry, I can't. I'm writing my blog.
- Peter: That's neat. What is it on?
- Sally: All the things you can do in Cambridge.
- Peter: In Cambridge? Why not Boston? There is more to do there.
- Sally: There's lots to do in Cambridge. Don't you like salsa dancing with me on Friday nights?
- Peter: Hmm ... You like Salsa ... I like hanging out with you.
- Sally: Oh, Peter ... you're so funny!

Let's Practice!

Descriptive Writing / Paragraphs

Descriptive paragraphs can describe things to do in your city. You use Infinitives to make writing more descriptive and interesting to read.

To write a descriptive paragraph you need:

A topic:

- the person, place, or thing you want to write about
- the opinion or observation that you will develop and support in the body sentences

Supporting Sentences:

- background information to support your topic
- descriptive details to develop your topic

Concluding Sentence:

- summarize the idea in a different way
- use words like in conclusion, all in all, or in summary to signal the ending

Examples:

- Topic sentence: Cambridge is a small town but there is so much to do.
- Supporting Sentence: I like to go the galleries and museums on James Blvd.
- Concluding Sentence: I love living in Cambridge.

Present Simple Tense for Descriptions

We use the Present Simple to talk about actions that happen again and again.

We use the Present Simple to talk about things that are true all the time.

We use the Present Simple to talk about feelings and thoughts.

We use the Present Simple in the interrogative form to ask questions.

Examples:

- Cambridge is a wonderful place to live.
- Salsa lessons are on Friday nights.
- I love this city.
- Do you like Cambridge?
- Is there a lot to do in Cambridge?
- What is your favorite part of the city?
